Puppet Soldier Plan (P.S. Plan)

A plan to use humans as "bio-weapons that obey orders absolutely" by performing special procedures on the brains of WAP pilots. The bio-weaponized pilot is referred to as a "prime body."

In order to procure WAP pilots for testing and development of the weapon, soldiers have been repeatedly abducted near the Huffman Island border since around 2087, and Van Paiz is the organization that carried out the abductions. Sakata Industrie? is the ringleader. Orphans and other minors have also been sacrificed as experimental subjects.

The research was put to rest with the collapse of the Vampires and the B organization, but the techniques and theories were transferred to the activities of the Nirvana Organization and converted to B.D. development.

affiliated organization

Sakata Industrie, the O.C.U. military upper echelon, the O.C.U. government, and the U.S.N. are also involved. The research that was originally being conducted at BATS was determined to be unworkable by the military due to interference by internal affairs investigations, and the research results and technology were sold to Sakata Industrie.

The Sakata Company hired? Vampires, organized by mercenaries, was involved in the abduction of WAP pilots on Huffman Island to be used as test subjects and played a role in the development of bioweapons.

Technical Features

By brainwashing a brain-dead pilot or creating a state of unconsciousness through an external neural connection, only the fighting instincts, motor skills, and reflexes are emphasized and the pilot's abilities are strengthened. Although it is said to cause no physical pain, the powerful brainwave control can cause significant harm, such as memory impairment and personality mourning. In addition, the neural connection between the pilot and the WAP that supports this technology can provide the sensation of walking even if the pilot has a gait disorder.

Aptitude testing is essential to certify WAP pilots as experimental subjects, and the Vampires' Mage Corps used a biojammer as a checker to determine this.

prototype (e.g. plane)

The B organization built the B1 and B2 prototypes as experimental aircraft for research purposes. The pilots of these prototypes required special aptitude.

B1 prototype "X-27 Ghost"

The B1 prototype was renamed "X-27 Ghost" due to a code name change midway through the project. The B1 prototype was renamed "X-27 Ghost," and Rage, a minor, was chosen as its base body despite being a nonconformist.

During the testing of the prototype, the control system went out of control and caused extensive damage to the research facility in seconds, killing a development engineer. It also frequently escaped from the facility.

The passenger, Rage, was later protected by the Tornado unit, but died shortly afterwards. It seems that the pilot's body and WAP were connected by a cable and became one body.

B2 Prototype X-00 "Vampire"

Faceless people who had been intentionally made brain-dead were used as the base body.

It was an improved version of the B1, but because it was still in the development stage, operating it for more than a certain amount of time could cause it to run out of control.

Later, Faithless was taken into custody by the Storm team. He was transported to a medical facility, but died a few days later.

Organization B had a plan underway to install a biological COM (B.D.) in the X-00 type, but the development was delayed due to intervention from C.I.S.U., and the project remains unfinished.

Note that regular pilots can also board the X-00 series.

X-06 Raven

It was an X series test aircraft, with Driscoll as the full-time? Driscoll was the full-time pilot.

It was in operation just before the outbreak of the Second Huffman Conflict, but B.D.? was absent, the control unit was prone to problems and its operation was unstable.

BATS

The O.C.U. military? Although a special forces unit, it has no contact with other special forces or civilian soldiers. Its activities are said to have been relatively short-lived, and it was primarily engaged in human experimentation, the technical cornerstone of the Puppet Soldier Plan.

Later, the research and experimental activities in the unit became the subject of a military internal affairs investigation, and Greg, who considered this an obstacle to continued research, intentionally caused the experiments to fail and staged the disbandment of the unit. The main function of the experiment was passed on with Gregg to the development of bio-weapons by the Vampires.

Greg also used a biojammer to render Barrett Storm (Ernest J. Salinger), who had objected to the sale of the technology, unconscious and manipulated his memory to prevent him from interfering with the sale plan.

The technology related to the Puppet Soldier Plan, such as the biojammer, which was no longer being handled by the military, was sold to Sakata Industries.

Troop members, Hicks, Logan, Sato, Greg (Rich), and Barrett Storm. The unit emblem is designed to resemble a dagger and bat wings.

B Organization

They were experimenting with artificially cultured brains and spinal cords as core systems to control WAP. The technology that was being researched at Vampires was converted, and the results of the B organization were passed on to B.D. Development.

Main Activities

The organization has several research and development facilities on Huffman Island and in O.C.U. territory, near Greylock and east of Freedom.

At a research division facility in the U.S.N. territory of Larkas, a core system with an artificial brain and spinal cord was already in the mass production stage before the conflict. The plant was surrounded by reconnaissance jamming jammers and was under tight security control by the WAP of the U.S.N. regular army.

Just prior to the second Huffman conflict, a medical institution (B organization?) authorized by the Embassy was moved from O.C.U. to U.S.N.

organization (corporate) man (woman)

Midget Brown of the O.C.U. Department of Science and Technology, Gilmore of the U.S.N. Army, and Aisha Romariaf of the Republic of Zahutla were involved in the research.

Brown disappeared from the B Organization research facility on May 31, 2090, Romariaf was temporarily transferred to respond to the X-27 troubles during the Vampires' active period? and Gilmore remained at the facility until the organization's collapse on June 3 of the same year.

U.S.N. technician (Gilmore?) behind B organization. is involved, but his connection to the upper echelons of the O.C.U. is unknown.

The BoM and 2089-II provided a glimpse into the situation prior to the second Huffman conflict regarding B.D. The flow of technology passed on can be rearranged roughly as follows.
BATS→Vampires→B Organization→Nirvana Organization→Sakata Industries

Details

Aisha Romariaf

Aisha Romariav

Born in 2071. His nationality is Republic of Zaftra and his parents live in Republic of Zaftra.

He is a neurological prodigy, having earned four doctoral degrees at the age of 14. He is studying resuscitation from brain death and hopes to use the testimony of the dead to help solve cases. This was motivated by a childhood experience when his family was torn apart by his grandfather's disputed will.

He was brought to Huffman Island as the main researcher of the Puppet Soldier Plan and is in charge of the X- 00 control system at the Vampires' research facility. He has succeeded in controlling the brain.

After the collapse of the Vampires, he was temporarily protected by C.I.S.U., but was taken back to Organization B and forced to participate in experiments. Later, he succeeded in escaping from the B Organization and was protected by the C.I.S.U.

In 2093, cooperating with C.I.S.U. in pursuit of B.D.-related cases?

Rachel Perkins?

Renowned journalist.

While conducting research on the Puppet Soldier Plan in the Huffman Island Governorate, he received information about the plan. However, after returning to his home country, he was arrested on suspicion of drug possession. Officially, his death was later ruled a suicide.
